

How to Use THE GUIDE

THE GUIDE — like an accommodating restaurant — is designed with your preference in mind, whether that's a particular food or a specific location. And using THE GUIDE is as easy as 1-2-3:

Step 1: Choose a city or specific metro Atlanta area.

Step 2: Refer to the Table of Contents (page 3), and find the appropriate section of THE GUIDE that lists the variety of restaurants and foods you can enjoy in that area.

Step 3: If you choose to dine in the metro Atlanta area, turn to the map in the centerfold of THE GUIDE. Match the color bar on the side of the page where your restaurant choice is listed with the same color area on the map to determine the restaurant's location.

For restaurant locations outside of the metro Atlanta area, use the telephone listings in THE GUIDE, and contact the restaurant for directions.

Now you're on your way to a warm welcome!

Tips on Tipping

A gratuity is customary for restaurant servers, and there may be other people who help you get to your dining destination to whom it may be appropriate to offer a gratuity in recognition of their service.

Gratuities are usually based on the level of service or a feeling of warmness. 1 — poor, moderate, good, great or superior gratuity opportunities for specific services include:

Bartender: 10 percent of total bar bill

Sommelier: 10-15 percent of total wine bill

Hotel Doorman: $1.00 or $2.00 depending on service

For large parties (six or more people), a gratuity may be automatically included in the bill. If you're uncertain if a gratuity has been added, ask the server.

Restaurant Reservations

Planning when and where to dine can enhance your dining experience and help you avoid long waits to be seated. When making reservations:

- Call the restaurant at least 24 hours in advance.
- Provide the host/hostess with your last name, the number of diners in your party, the hour you expect to dine, and your non-smoking or smoking preference.

(Because accommodations for smokers may vary, ask about the restaurant's smoking policy. That way, you can ensure that the establishment's accommodations for non-smokers and smokers meet your expectations.)

- If your plans change, please be courteous and cancel or adjust your reservation accordingly.

Serving Hours

Restaurants' serving hours vary depending on the establishment, as do the days of the week a restaurant is open. It's best to call the restaurant to determine its specific schedule and serving hours. However, standard serving days and hours include:

Monday through Sunday ...

Lunch: 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Dinner: 5:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

Service & Tax

Alcoholic Beverage Service:

Georgia has several laws related to the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages. These include:

- The legal drinking age for alcoholic beverages is 21 years of age. Proper identification with a photograph must be shown at the time of purchase or on request. Persons under 21 can patronize restaurants, but cannot enter nightclubs or bars that do not serve food.
- No alcoholic beverage can be carried out of a bar or restaurant, nor can it be consumed or carried in an open container in an automobile or on any public property (streets, buildings, etc.).
- No alcoholic beverages are allowed to be served in Atlanta restaurants on Sunday before noon. Other jurisdictions' laws may vary.

Sales Tax:

- Georgia has a 4 percent sales tax on purchased goods and services, including food and beverages.
- Many municipalities levy an additional sales tax. For instance, the City of Atlanta charges a 2 percent sales tax, for a total combined state and municipal sales tax of 6 percent.
- Standard sales taxes range from 5 percent to 7 percent throughout Georgia.

Smoking Policies:

Each county in the state of Georgia has specific policies about where smoking is and is not permitted.

- Always check for signage designating non-smoking and smoking areas.
- If you are unsure of a specific area's smoking policy, always inquire.

Dining-Out Tips

- If you are meeting a group of people at a restaurant, it is polite to wait for the entire group to assemble before being seated.
- When being waited at a restaurant, women generally walk behind the headwaiter, and the men follow them.
- As soon as you are seated, place your napkin in your lap. Never tie your napkin around your neck or tuck it into the top of your shirt.

- To summon your waiter or waitress, raise your hand. Fingers pointed upwards, and signal for further attention. If by some accident you don't see your gesture, it is acceptable to verbally summon him/her.
- Table d'hôte means a set menu for a complete meal, regardless of how many courses are offered.
- Don't wipe off the tableware in a restaurant. If your eating utensils are dirty, ask the server for clean ones.

- Always start eating with the utensil that is farthest away from the plate, and always place your knife on the plate after cutting.
- If you leave your seat during your meal, or when your meal is complete, place your napkin on the left side of your plate. If the plate has been removed, place it in the middle.

2061037879

8

From Start to Finish

- It is never polite to reach across the table for anything. If the item you want is not close at hand, rather than reach, ask that it be passed.
- When asked to "pass the salt," it is acceptable to pass the salt without the pepper.

- When served a beverage that requires stirring, remove your spoon before drinking the beverage.

- It is not polite to use a toothpick or your fingers to pick food out of your teeth at the table. Wait until the end of the meal to take care of it, or, if necessary, excuse yourself.

- If a restaurant serves more food than you can eat, it is permissible for you to ask for a doggy bag to take your food home.

- If you have a complaint with the restaurant or the service, speak to the server first without causing a fuss or attracting the attention of other diners. If the situation isn't immediately rectified, speak to the manager.

- After dinner, it is acceptable for a woman to quickly freshen her lipstick and powder her nose at the table. However, hair brushing is considered bad manners.

"No matter what type of food you crave — from Southern cooking to ethnic cuisine — you can find a restaurant to satisfy your taste throughout Georgia. And, just as important, you'll find restaurants that accommodate your non-smoking or smoking preference. All you need to do is call the restaurant of your choice and reserve a table."

SOUTHERN FOOD FACTS

Barbecue (BBQ) is a Southern dish of slow-roasted meat (pork, chicken or beef) over an open pit. There are two popular types of barbecue in the South — vinegar-based barbecue and red sauce barbecue.

Grits originate from a coarsely ground grain, usually either cornmeal or hominy, and are served with butter, sugar, honey or cheese — a Southern favorite.

About The Accommodation Program

The Accommodation Program New York, New York

The Accommodation Program recognizes that successful businesses in the hospitality industry are dedicated to the concepts of superior customer service and the accommodation of all guests and patrons.

Therefore, The Accommodation Program has made a commitment to develop and provide comprehensive training resources and materials to help businesses implement plans for effectively designating non-smoking and smoking areas in their establishments. All materials are provided free of charge, courtesy of Philip Morris Incorporated.

A step-by-step source book offers customer service tips and valuable information on seating, dining and guest room configurations, as well as on proper operation and maintenance of heating, ventilation and air-conditioning systems. Program signage can be used to display the business's policy of accommodation, as well as to designate separate non-smoking and smoking sections.

More than 25,000 businesses nationwide participate in The Accommodation Program. Participants have found that accommodating all guests—non-smokers and smokers alike—is good business.

Businesses interested in participating in The Accommodation Program may call 1-800-929-1414.
